You are hereby notified that the Court has entered the following opinion and order:

2020AP510-CR	State of Wisconsin v. Brandon J. Collins (L.C. #2011CF1443)
2020AP511-CR	State of Wisconsin v. Brandon J. Collins (L.C. #2011CF1468)

Before Reilly, P.J., Gundrum and Davis, JJ.

Summary disposition orders may not be cited in any court of this state as precedent or authority, except for the limited purposes specified in WIS. STAT. RULE 809.23(3).

Brandon J. Collins appeals pro se, in these consolidated cases, from an order of the circuit court denying his motion to terminate his lifetime GPS tracking imposed as a result of his convictions for child sexual assault. Based upon our review of the briefs and record, we conclude at conference that this case is appropriate for summary disposition. See WIS. STAT. RULE 809.21 (2017-18).¹ We summarily affirm.

¹ All references to the Wisconsin Statutes are to the 2017-18 version.

In 2012, Collins pled guilty to four crimes involving child sexual assault. He received a total of six years' initial confinement and six years' extended supervision, with an imposed and stayed sentence as well as eleven years' probation. After Collins was released on June 19, 2018, his lifetime GPS tracking commenced. A year later, he filed a motion seeking to terminate the mandatory GPS tracking, which the circuit court denied. Collins appeals.

Collins, a self-described “NONPERSON,” “NON-RESIDENT,” “NON-DEBTOR,” “NON-CORPORATED,” “NON-FICTION,” “NON-SUBJECT,” “NON-PARTICIPANT,” “NON-CITIZEN,” “NON-DEFENDANT,” “transient foreigner,” asserts that he is a “stateless person” outside the jurisdiction of the courts of Wisconsin. He argues that his GPS monitoring “shall be dismissed because of not being ordered.” We disagree.

Lifetime GPS monitoring is required by law if a person is convicted of certain child sex crimes. WIS. STAT. § 301.48(2)(a). Section 301.48(6)(a) allows a person subject to lifetime tracking to file a petition requesting that the tracking be terminated, but the statute requires a court to deny (“shall deny”) a person’s petition for release from lifetime GPS tracking if he or she petitions before twenty years has passed. Sec. 301.48(6)(b)2.

We conclude Collins’ arguments are meritless. Collins pled guilty to child sexual assault offenses that statutorily require lifetime GPS tracking. See WIS. STAT. § 301.48(1)(cm), (1)(cn), (2)(a). As Collins filed his petition within the twenty-year period, the court was statutorily mandated to deny Collins’ petition, and Collins offers no legal authority to the contrary.²

² Collins did not file a reply to the State’s brief.

We do not address Collins' frivolous "nonperson" argument. Collins is subject to lifetime GPS monitoring regardless of how he describes himself.

Upon the foregoing reasons,

IT IS ORDERED that the order of the circuit court is summarily affirmed pursuant to WIS. STAT. RULE 809.21.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that this summary disposition order will not be published.
