Although a person may not meet state public defender guidelines for appointment of an attorney or the state public defender may not be able to appoint an attorney, there may still be constitutional or other considerations why an attorney should be appointed at county expense.

This form allows the person to petition the court for appointment of an attorney, complete a declaration of indigency and deliver it to court.

The court would review the declaration and make a determination of indigency and appoint an attorney if appropriate. If an attorney is appointed, the court must:

- designate the attorney to be appointed and the payment rate for the attorney (SPD rates or other), and,
- make a determination of whether the county should be reimbursed for the costs of that appointment and the schedule of payments that should be made.

The court may deny the request if:

- The person is not indigent (including if the declaration is deemed to be untrue), or
- Other reasons. For example, in Joni B. v. State, 202 Wis.2d 1, 549 N.W.2d 411 (1996), the court set standards for determining the appropriateness of appointing an attorney for parents in CHIPS cases.
